CRITERIA: Honorary Membership is the highest award recognizing a long record of accomplishment in North American avalanche related activity. The person need not be an AAA member though membership is customary.

Kingery Award: Recognizes the sustained career contributions by an AAA Professional Member, primarily engaged in field avalanche forecasting, mitigation, research or education and safety.

Honorary Fellowship Award: Recognizes the contribution of an individual who has contributed significantly to avalanche related programs in countries other than the United States (need not be an AAA member).

Special Service Award: This award is in recognition of specific and outstanding achievement in the service of North American snow avalanche activity. Generally, the Governing Board will initiate nomination and approval process. It is not necessary that the recipient be a member of AAA, but that has generally been the case.

All nominations must be accompanied by a written citation that identifies the individual's history, accomplishments and contributions in avalanche programs and/or through research, education, and public safety. This citation will be the basis for recommendation by the Awards Committee, and should not exceed 300 words.
